Introduction

Our Standard Conditions of Recognition refer to “compliance with regulatory documents” (see condition B7) and “compliance of qualifications with regulatory documents” (see condition D5.)

The documents listed within this Regulatory Documents List are the regulatory documents that are currently in force for awarding bodies that we recognise. In cases of difference or contradiction between regulatory documents, unless specifically stated, the Standard Conditions of Recognition will take precedence over other regulatory documents.

Some regulatory documents are applied generally (general application,) while other regulatory documents are applicable to specific qualifications (qualification specific application.) Qualification specific regulatory documents may also have additional subject specific requirements that need to be adhered to (subject specific application.)

There are four main categories of regulatory documents.

CONDITIONS

Regulatory requirements that an awarding body is required to demonstrate ongoing compliance with

CRITERIA

Regulatory requirements that we check as part of a defined gateway process and subject to ongoing compliance

PROCEDURES

Procedural regulatory requirements

POLICIES

Policies outlining our regulatory approach
